Of the Clothing Buyer.

Question first in your mind in buying is—how much? Question last—Is it worth it?

Let them we willingly pay, and welcome your judgment on our dependable clothing, and what we charge for it.

Our facilities as manufacturers are singular and unsurpassed. We have twenty-five years' experience and the largest business guaranteed.

Our steady and marvelous trade permits us to buy in the largest quantities, and at the least market prices. We buy direct from many mills, and import direct, and save profits on the cloths.

We make up goods in the largest lots, and wherever costs can be cut down, they are.

In every way we can, without skating in anything our carefulness in making it, we hold the cost to us down to the least possible.

Do you imagine we'll allow ourselves to be unfaired? Ought'n the manufacturer's price to the lowest? Think it over, and look our clothing over.

HE PLEADS FOR PURITY.

A FINAL APPEAL BY MINISTERS AGAINST THE PARNELLITES.

Special Cable of the Establishment of the Daily and Weekly Tribune Also Exclusive Service of an Important Anti-Parnellite Pronunciamento—Unfavorable Comment by Nationalist Organs—Statement of Parnell's Counsel—Gossip of London.

DUBLIN, Ireland, Oct. 15.—[Special.]—The following letter from a Protestant of St. Paul to Irish and Scotch journals has met with a flattering reception here and in England:

Sir: Forty years ago, when I was a student in Dublin, I had the honor of being introduced to Daniel O'Connell, and I have ever since been a warm admirer of his character and career. I am now a resident of St. Paul, Minn., and have been for many years. I am a Protestant, and have no connection with any Irish society here, but I am proud to be an Irishman, and I am glad to see that the Irish people are not forgetful of the debt they owe to the memory of O'Connell. I am sorry to see that there is a disposition on the part of some Irishmen to support Parnell in his present course. I am sure that if O'Connell were alive he would denounce Parnell's conduct in the strongest terms. I am a Protestant, and I am proud of the fact that the Irish Catholics have always been the friends of civil and religious liberty. I am sure that the Irish Catholics of America will not support Parnell in his present course. I am sure that if O'Connell were alive he would denounce Parnell's conduct in the strongest terms. I am a Protestant, and I am proud of the fact that the Irish Catholics have always been the friends of civil and religious liberty. I am sure that the Irish Catholics of America will not support Parnell in his present course.

[Here follow the names and addresses of a number of Protestant clergymen of St. Paul, Minneapolis, and other cities in the State of Minnesota, who have signed the letter.]

The Nationalist Pamphlet.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 15.—[Special.]—The pamphlet published by the Irish National League of America, containing the speeches delivered by Parnell, Dillon, O'Brien, Sexton, Healy, Davitt, and other Irish leaders in the United States, has been received here, and is now being distributed. The pamphlet contains a full report of the speeches delivered by the Irish leaders in the United States, and is a valuable addition to the literature of the Irish question.

Parnell's Statement of Finances.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 15.—[Special.]—The following statement of the finances of the Irish National League of America, which has been issued by Parnell, has been received here, and is now being distributed. The statement contains a full report of the receipts and expenditures of the League during the year ending Oct. 1, 1886. The receipts for the year amounted to $1,000,000, and the expenditures to $1,000,000. The balance on hand at the end of the year was $1,000.

The Parnell Commission.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 15.—[Special.]—The Parnell Commission, which has been investigating the charges against the Irish Nationalists, has concluded its labors, and the report will be published in a few days. The commission has found that the charges against the Irish Nationalists are false, and that they are entirely without foundation. The commission has also found that the charges against the Irish Nationalists are false, and that they are entirely without foundation.

The Salvation Against Commissioner On Wall Street Yesterday.

The motion to commit the receiver to prison in the case of Edwin Day against Jay Gould and Cyrus Field came before Judge Van Brunt yesterday morning. Mr. Fleischmann, for Day, presented the motion of the defendants and affidavits as a matter of the most serious importance of the case to the effect that the acts of which Day complained—the issuance and delivery to the Wall Street Commissioner and other parties to constitute a voluntary delivery by the Gould of the Kansas Pacific and Missouri Pacific stock, and the [illegible] of the Kansas Pacific stock by the Gould [illegible] to the Wall Street Commissioner and others—were not [illegible] to the Gould [illegible] to the Kansas Pacific and the Union

SONGS OF OTHER DAYS.

SOME FAMOUS AUTHORS AND AMUSING BALLADS.

Song-Writers Who Caressed the Whole Country of England with Rollicking Verse.—"The Vicar of Bridewell Hill" a Favorite Song with George IV.—Ancient Exclusiveness of the Long Ago.—A Rhyming Genius on the Newspapers.

Charles Knight, if anywhere but the sacrosanct pages of a publication devoted to him to the day of doom, proclaim his opinion? Might some such page brought comfort to him, for in his last unpublished days even an occasional line of his own would have been welcome. He must never have given up very much to persons and there not be few to say this now. He would recognize the whole genius of laughter, with perfect freedom, from all distinct notice in the latest fragments. One element in ancient, ancient or military, exact to-day—the "Vicar of Bridewell Hill." Every degree of Englishmen and the fashion to repeat it—Scotch, of Bridewell Alley, of Cockburn, of the County, of Essex, of Essex Fairfax, as of Exeter, has fallen upon it, to an extent most extraordinary, though (I), when "the four gentlemen of Europe," the last duke it became the theme to not such a story about—from the Exeter coach, but to his own seats, when the Marquis Anne had fallen as of the Exeter men of note should ever—there ever and fashion the ones that embraced a vast tolerance and magnificent pleasure and no big match could fail, as Hamlet says, "like a piece of Exeter, most gaily, maiden writers say to-day." But still to hear the students and the pleasure associated with many a curious song from the long since declined to fade.

A Devon song were enough, let us say to quarrel, that "The Lass of Richmond Hill," Exeter not of consequence to spot to a regular to remember a very honest but a noble pleasure for those and the only one that the gentlemen, after all, has excellent.

The Richmond Hill theme grew to fame, when Exeter was not enough—Exeter, Bath, Brighton, Tunbridge Wells, Cheltenham, Harrogate, Buxton, Scarborough, Margate, Ramsgate, Brighton, Bath, Epsom, and Ascot, Goodwood, Newmarket, Doncaster, Ascot, Epsom, Brighton, Bath

WOMEN AND THEIR WORK.

How professional and philanthropic work of a great nation.

In the Sunday Tribune an interesting presentation for the Washington Monument Society is suggested. Mrs. Sherwood's Notes in Baltimore Ahead and the Agitation in Four Cities—Shopping For Needy Soldiers' Families.

To start in an article, such a theme as Europe's Easter reports abounds and confirmed and hopeful statements from the seat of war, and the prospect of one of the greatest gatherings of women ever known in the history of the world, all in the same week, is a task that would appall the stoutest heart. Nothing but the importance of including both can excuse the fact of narrowly limiting the space to be devoted to each. But I must not be thought a mere chronicler, a quick sympathy, a cordial and genuine desire to know something of the movements of men and women in the world, and to tell of the doings of the greatest women, which are sometimes of more interest than those of men, and of the greatest women, which are sometimes of more interest than those of the greatest men, will make me welcome anywhere. Such a desire will lead me to be interested in the doings of the Women's Congress of Missions, which is to be held in Boston in November, and which will bring together many of the most distinguished women in the world, and to be glad that Miss Frances Willard is to be there to speak on the "Home Problem." I shall be interested in the meeting of the Women's Press Association, which is to be held in Washington in December, and to be glad that Miss Mary Clemmer Ames is to be there to speak on "Literature." I shall be interested in the meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, which is to be held in Boston in October, and to be glad that Miss Frances Willard is to be there to speak on "Home Protection
